

Women in Economics

A career in economics can take you in many different directions.
Meet some of Australia's leading women in economics.

Public Sector Economist
Jenny Wilkinson

Public sector economists advise Governments and Parliaments on the economic and financial implications of alternative public policies for the Australian people.

Labour Economist
Alison Booth

Labour economists study the dynamics of the workforce and decisions made by employees and employers that influence these dynamics, like education and family choices through to discrimination in the labour market.

Central Banking Economist
Michele Bullock

Central banking economists engage in research and analysis of the economy and its outlook so that policy decisions can be made that best support the welfare and prosperity of the Australian people.

Finance and Economics Commentator
Jessica Irvine

Finance and economics commentators provide analysis and commentary on topical finance and economics issues to inform and engage wider audiences.

Environmental Economist
Jo Evans

Environmental economists examine the relationship between the economy and the environment. They look at ways to achieve a healthy environment, a strong economy and thriving communities.

Market Economist
Su-Lin Ong

Market economists in global financial institutions highlight trends influencing financial markets by providing detailed economic analysis and forecasts for regions around the world.

Public Sector Economist
Danielle Wood

Public sector economists advise Governments and Parliaments on a range of economic, social and environmental issues affecting the welfare of the Australian people.

Market Economist
Besa Deda

Market economists in Australian financial institutions formulate views and forecasts of economic conditions to guide the investment decisions for their institution's clients.

Behavioural Economist
Gigi Foster

Behavioural economists apply psychological insights to explain economic decision making.

Explore economics.

Learn more about what they do and their pathways into economics by visiting rba.gov.au/education

RESERVE BANK OF AUSTRALIA